

Death and Taxes: Why Everyone Needs an Estate Plan

Come learn about the tools used to protect your legacy
Presented by local attorney Dallin R. Groneman

Most of us have an idea that we should have a plan for our family, but don't know where to begin. We hear about estate planning in movies, books, and stories of distant relatives who inherited something from their estranged uncle. At worst we discover them, or rather a need for one, during the most difficult time in our lives.

This is a free informational seminar on the basics of estate planning open to the public, including the various tools used and how they can help you in your life.

The Estate Planning Basics will be presented on the following dates and locations:
